To whom it may concern,

Approximately twenty years ago, my husband and I purchased his family property on Chimney Cove at The Lake of the Ozarks. This property held a lot of family memories for our immediate and extended family. But the approximately 50+ year old original structure was past its prime and beyond continuing to try to salvage. My husband and I decided we needed to replace the old family cabin. But living in Lees Summit, MO – approximately 2 ½ hours away, we needed to find a contractor that we could trust with this project and not feel the need to continuously make continuous trips to the job site. We also needed a contractor who could look at the site and help us envision what type of house belonged on our lot. We wanted to bring new memories of the Lake of the Ozarks to family and friends for years to come! We actively sought referrals from several resources and interviewed numerous prospective candidates, before selecting Brent Calvert, Calvert Construction. We spent a day with Brent – looking at numerous completed construction projects, talking with former clients and became very comfortable that he could be trusted with this project. Our values were completely in sync. This was further reinforced by our banker and personal friend, Keith Asel the President of Hawthorne Bank who also did his own independent research and came to the same conclusion.

In October, the original structure was bulldozed down, the lot was scraped clean and construction commenced. Aside from a few weather delays, our new home was completed in just less than nine months exactly as we envisioned it! Throughout the months of construction, we made monthly trips to the job site to observe the progress and had continually conversations with Brent – everything went smoothly and without any glitches or hiccups. Our banker also made monthly trips to the job site to review progress. He was also very impressed with both the workmanship and overall neatness of the job site.

My husband and I would definitely recommend Brent Calvert, Calvert Construction to anyone who is looking for a construction contractor. We are so proud of our new home that we have encouraged Brent to feel free to use our property to prospective clients as an example of his workmanship.

Sincerely,

Arthur and Valie Robbins
