*I.G.T. or Indicazione Geografica Tipica: the new wine classification introduced in 1992 as part of a general reorganization of the D.O.C. (Denominazione di Origine Controllata) Italian wine law. I.G.T. was to be a new controlled quality level just below the D.O.C. to create a home for wines that, for many reasons, did not meet the D.O.C. requirements, but had regional character. I.G.P. or Indication Géographique Protégée, is a wine classification under the French AOC system and is the lowest-ranking in the country's wine hierarchy. Under Italian wine law D.O.C.G. is the highest designation of quality among Italian wines. *D.O.C. is the designation of quality among Italian wines. D.O.C. stands for Denominazione di Origine Controllata (Denomination of Controlled Origin, D.O.C.).
